

PROPOSAL

Short-form video for Dick's Pawn Superstore

Prepared for Jill · September 18, 2026

Here is the whole thing in three lines. You get four finished videos a month, ready to post. It costs $5,000 a month. You can stop any time you want, and there is nothing to get out of.

There is no contract term.

No minimum number of months. No notice period. No cancellation fee. If you want to stop, send me an email and we stop — you are paid up through the month you are in, and that is the end of it.

If the first month doesn't convince you, you have spent one month.

What you get each month

Four finished videos, delivered ready to post. Nothing half-done and nothing you have to edit yourself.

- Four videos a month — 30 to 60 seconds each, vertical, built for TikTok, Instagram Reels and YouTube Shorts.
- Everything included — idea, script, production, editing, on-screen graphics and captions. You get a finished file.
- Two rounds of changes on each video, so you are not stuck with a first draft.
- Your approval on everything. Nothing gets posted or shown to anyone until you have said yes.

What it costs

$5,000 a month. That is the full cost — production, revisions, captions and graphics are all in it. No setup fee, no per-video charges, and nothing gets added to an invoice without asking you first.

How the videos get made

The presenter and the store around him are generated, built to match your real stores from your own photos. That means no shoot days, no crew in your stores and no working around business hours — which is what makes four videos a month possible at this price. I am telling you up front so it is never a surprise later.

Getting started

Sign the agreement on the next page and send it back. The first invoice goes out the day we start, and the first videos are with you within ten business days.

If you want to talk anything through first, call me any time — [your phone] or [your email].

AGREEMENT

Video production agreement

Between Kyle Fries Marketing ("we") and Dick's Pawn Superstore ("you") · September 18, 2026

1. What we do

Four finished short-form videos each month. Each one runs 30 to 60 seconds, is vertical, and is captioned and delivered ready to post. That covers the idea, the script, the production, the editing, the graphics and the captions, plus up to two rounds of changes on each video.

2. What it costs

$5,000 per month, invoiced on the first and due within 15 days. That is the whole cost — we will not invoice you for anything else unless we ask you first and you say yes in writing.

3. Stopping

You can stop at any time, for any reason, by email. No minimum term, no notice period, no cancellation fee.

We finish and hand over anything you have already paid for, and we do not invoice you again — you are never billed for a month you did not want. If we ever need to stop, we will give you 30 days' notice.

4. Your approval

Nothing is published or shown to anyone else without your written okay. If you do not like something, say so and we will change it or drop it. We will only put a claim on screen that you have confirmed is accurate — you are the final word on your prices, policies and licensing.

5. Who owns the videos

You do. Once a month's invoice is paid, that month's videos are yours outright, to use however and for as long as you want, including after you stop. We would like to show the work in our portfolio, but we will ask you first.

6. What we need from you

Photos of the stores, and one person who can approve drafts. If a draft is not approved within ten business days, we carry that video into the next batch.

7. Keeping things private

Anything you share with us that is not already public stays between us.

8. The rest

This is the whole agreement and it replaces anything discussed before it. South Carolina law governs it. It can only be changed in writing, signed by both of us.
